Funding available for current WBS Doctoral Researchers
WBS Bursary	Open to all doctoral programme students who are self-funded	Variable – normally between £2,000- £3,000 for full-time students who are eligible	One year award	4 May 2012

Chancellor's Scholarships

All prospective full-time doctoral researchers and full-time researchers currently in the first year of the doctoral programme are eligible to apply for these University awards regardless of nationality. Details of how to apply for these awards is available at the Graduate School web site (see link below). Deadline for application for 2012/13 entry is 31st January 2012. New applicants to the programme must apply for both admission to the programme and funding at the same time (ie before 31st January 2012). Please see the Graduate School website for details:

Chancellor's International Scholarships (for overseas students only)

These are new scholarships available for full-time applicants paying overseas fees. The scholarships will pay fees at overseas level plus stipend of £13,590 per annum. These awards are only open to new applicants. The application process is the same as for the Chancellor's Scholarships. Eligible applicants who apply for the Chancellor's Scholarships will be considered automatically for a Chancellor's International Scholarship. There are only 17 scholarships available across all doctoral programmes in the University so competition will be fierce. See:

<http://www2.warwick.ac.uk/services/academicoffice/gsp/scholarship/funding/phd/chancellorsinternationalscholarships>

ESRC DTC Studentships

These awards are available only to UK and EU applicants. WBS will receive a minimum of 4 awards per annum over the next 5 years. It has also been allocated an additional 3 year award with flexibility on the timing of the allocation of this award. The competition for 2012 has not yet opened but details will be posted on the DTC website as soon as it does:

http://www2.warwick.ac.uk/fac/cross_fac/socialsciencesdct/

WBS will automatically consider all eligible applicants who apply for a Chancellor's Scholarship for an ESRC studentship.

WBS Scholarships

These scholarships are open to full-time applicants to the WBS Doctoral Programme as well as current first year students who are registered full-time, regardless of nationality. There is no separate application process for these scholarships. Applicants who apply for other scholarships listed above will automatically be considered for a WBS scholarship. Award holders are required to undertake some teaching and related duties up to a maximum of 110 hours per annum.

Accounting, Markets and Organizations (AMO) Scholarships

These scholarships are open to full-time PhD applicants to the AMO Group, regardless of nationality. There is no separate application process for these scholarships. Applicants who apply for other scholarships listed above will automatically be considered for an AMO scholarship. Award holders are required to undertake some teaching and related duties up to a maximum of 110 hours per annum in years 2 and 3.

PhD in Finance Scholarships

These scholarships are open to full-time applicants to the PhD in Finance as well as current first year PhD Finance students who are registered full-time, regardless of nationality. There is no separate application process for these scholarships. Applicants who apply for other scholarships listed above will automatically be considered for a PhD in Finance scholarship. Award holders are required to undertake some teaching and related duties up to a maximum of 110 hours per annum in years 2 and 3.

WBS Bursaries

These are smaller awards available to all registered students on the programme who are self-funding. The typical value of the bursaries varies depending on the number of eligible applicants each year but is normally between £2-3,000 for full-time students. These awards are not open to new applicants to the programme. The deadline for applications for 2011/12 is 4th May 2012. Details of the application process will be circulated to all students on the programme early in 2012.

Collaborative Studentships

There are 2 possible routes open to faculty who wish to explore the possibility of securing external match funding or pursuing a collaborative project with an external partner organisation:

The Warwick Collaborative Postgraduate Research Scholarships (WCPRS) – details of the scheme are attached with this document.

Collaborative ESRC DTC Studentships – details of the scheme, together with a copy of the ESRC's Good Practice Guide for Setting up Studentships and a proposal form, are attached with this document.

The DPO would be happy to support colleagues with the application process should they wish to develop a proposal for collaborative funding. Please contact Farat Ara (farat.ara@wbs.ac.uk).

Other Sources of Funding

Each year the programme receives details of other sources of funding for WBS doctoral students. These are publicised on the doctoral programme and Graduate School websites as they become available.
