Q: Where will my artwork be showcased?
A: Your artwork will be showcased in a 2m x 2m space that has recently become available in the Warwick Business School building.

Q: What sort of concept are you expecting?
A: We’ve deliberately not given tight guidelines, as we want you to approach it in any way you like! You might consider photography, illustration, experiential art installation, painting or a combination of media – as long as it fits the brief.

Q: Can my concept have a digital element?
A: Yes – there is power to this area of the building. Unfortunately no sound can be permitted due to the location.

Q: I’m not an art or design student, or a Business School student. Can I enter?
A: We welcome entries from students from across the University of Warwick, studying anything from business to medicine, and from theatre studies to biology. Often the most creative and thought-provoking entries will come from those who come at the brief from a slightly different angle, and this is exactly what we’re looking for.

Q: What is the Change Maker ideology?
A: The Change Maker ideology means different things to different people, but it is at the core of what we want our students to be and to become. It serves as a mission statement for our students, and helps us to shape students that change the world around them, whether that be another person’s perspective, an industry, or an entire community.

Someone can be a CEO and be a Change Maker. Equally, someone can be an 18 year old at the start of their career and be a Change Maker. What unites our students is a fearless, determined, forward-facing, and open-minded attitude.

Q: Where do I enter?
A: Email your entry as a PDF to changeourspace@wbs.ac.uk to be entered into the competition. If your entry is too large to email, please send us a WeTransfer link via email.
